

LARRY JORDAN

Larry Jordan, who obeyed the gospel at the D'Antignac Street Church in his hometown of Augusta, Ga. in 1976, has been a Hillcrest member since 1980.

Larry and his wife Vickie, who have six children, have lived in many places around the world, as Brother Jordan spent nearly 20 years in the Air Force as a flight crewmember. Now a manager of several Downtown facilities for the United States Postal Service, Jordan is still a man on the go.

"I thoroughly enjoyed my years traveling," he said. "My favorite city was Amsterdam, a comfortable city of free spirits."

His favorite pastimes are reading and traveling. His hobby of weight lifting, which ruled his life as a younger man, has been in semi-retirement, he says, but he plans to get back to pumping iron.

Jordan says one of his most satisfying roles as an elder of the Lord's church is to work for balance of views among the elders and the membership. "Bringing people together and getting them on the same page is not easy, but it is one of the most important parts of leadership," he said.

Staying focused on God, he says, is an important means of keeping the membership unified. "I believe a most important program of the church is teaching," says the experienced Bible class teacher, "teaching about Christ, and trying to make us be above all, a teaching church."

Larry Jordan was ordained an elder in 1997.
